The Floating Cloud Table Lamp is made of glinting mouth-blown glass. This white table lamp with drifts of pale blue on its surface was created by a very sophisticated process that involves two artisans working together—one blowing the pastel gray textured glass while a second pours white and light-blue texture into the molten material. The body is then fitted to an equally ethereal optic crystal base and accentuated with hardware in a polished nickel finish. Because these are artisanal pieces, each one will be unique.
